HANDCRAFTED ARTISTRY THROUGH PENCILS & PIXELS

MIAMI BEACH

Growing up a solitary 70's latch-key kid, Miami Beach Artist John Lacko enjoyed a steady diet of pirated Japanese cable game shows, evil cartoon monster movies and pixel chomping Atari foes while consuming an abundant supply of tooth rotting sugary snacks.

This turned out to be the fertile ground for his insightful imagination.

Handcrafting his artwork with needles, pencils & pixels, John spends his days creating computer characters for indie magazines and national retail chains and his nights tinkering in his honeycomb hideout garage making up new colors and setting design trends with his nefarious online network of international amigos.

Channeling his techniques in illustrative story telling and demented design thinking, John's art appears in the Vans Warped Tour, Fangoria Magazine, Fuse TV, Adidas, XM Radio, Bravo TV's "Project Runway," Alternative Press Magazine and Macy's Department Store.

Although he likes to tell people he's telepathic, it's best to contact John by phone or email.
